Study Overview

Study Overview

As the humanitarian and economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic continues to unfold, we once again turned to leaders in the global HR community to understand how companies are adjusting their workforce strategies in response to the current environment.

The design of this study reflects a broad partnership between clients—many of whom submitted questions to us in advance of this project—and numerous teams at Aon, including our firm's assessment, benefits, employee communications, health, human capital strategy, retirement and rewards practices, among others.

We thank our clients, colleagues, and all study participants for their contributions to this project at a time when we all face personal and professional challenges few could have foreseen a short time ago.

On an overall basis, the global study conducted from December 1, 2021 to January 14, 2022, garnered submission from a total of 812 participants. Depending on the filters selected, your dynamic report will have fewer participants.

When interpreting study results, we ask all readers to consider the following:

The COVID-19 pandemic continues to evolve on a daily basis, with varying levels of impact by geography and industry. Our pulse survey reflects a point-in-time snapshot of practices reported between December 1 and December 13. We remind readers that experiences may vary widely within any given country or from one organization to another. For these reasons, we plan to pulse the market on an ongoing basis to monitor changing practices
